Keywords: *diction analysis, political news, online news portalINTRODUCTION

The use of diction is an important thing in writing, like particularly in writing news, specifically in online news. But in fact, there are still many mistakes in online news writing that do not meet standard grammar. For example, choosing words that are not accurate with the use of accurate diction is expected so that the content of online news makers can be accepted, readers can understand the content easily. The use of diction in online political news lidun6.com should not meet the rules of grammar, for example the use of diction that does not fit the context.

In simple terms, the theory put forward by Mansurudin (2010) in his book Mozaik Bahasa Indonesia defines diction as "the use or selection of appropriate and accurate diction can help the author in assigning value to a word. Selection of dictions that are the same age, in other words, will prevent misinterpretation or differences in interpretation between writers and readers from dictionaries. Widyamartaya in the book Art of Pouring Ideas (1990), defines diction as "a person's ability to accurately distinguish a nuance of meaning according to the idea conveyed. The ability of a person to distinguish these meanings, according to the situation and the sense of value held by community groups and listeners and readers of diction experts is obtained from the book Art of Pouring Ideas. Enre (1988) is not much different from the opinions of other experts. According to Enre (1988) in his book entitled Fundamentals of Writing Skills "diction is the use of the right words to represent the thoughts and treatments that you want to convey in certain sentence patterns. If conclusions are drawn, it can be interpreted that diction is the choice of words that can determine the style of language to express the contents of the thoughts, ideas of the author so that there are no misinterpretations in writing. Previous research related to this title is as follows. The results of this data analysis are in the form of diction analysis, namely analyzing diction or choosing the right term

The difference between this research and the research above is that it aims to find out and explain the use of diction/words, types of word use, and errors or inaccuracies in word use or word choice in daily political news articles on Liputan6.com. The reason for this study choosing the subject of analyzing the use of diction in online political news articles liputan6.com, is as follows. The reason researchers took this subject was to identify the use of diction in online political news articles liputan6.com. The second reason is to examine whether online political news articles liputan6.com contain errors in the use of diction in the news. The third reason the researcher wants to know is whether there are still many people who already understand the use of good and correct diction. The fourth reason the researcher chose the coverage news portal6 was that the researcher found errors in connotation, denotation and synonyms on the political news portal.

Based on the explanation above, this study found the following problem formulation: first, on October 18, 2022 entitled (Secretary General of NasDem: Anies Candidate Candidate Must Be Strong in Pilkada) with the quote "The presidential candidate and vice presidential candidate are not only related to inter-work relations, but also pay attention to voters" in paragraph 2 in the news it was found that the use of inappropriate diction in the news sentence above was electoral in nature. Electoral words are words that have a connotative meaning. Must be replaced with electability. This is an example of a diction error in connotative meaning and there is also some data that the researchers have found and will discuss in the results and discussion using tables. Therefore, this study aims to find out how to write the correct diction in liputan6.com news. what is even more in-depth is to observe the meaning of connotations and other diction errors in liputan6.com news articles.
